Great corner building lot located a few miles east of Welton in Southern Arizona. This property is perfect for the snowbird looking to stay warm in the winter. Build yourself a place to call your own. Zoned R-1-40, this parcel allows for one single family dwelling per 40,000 square feet of lot size. This means that there will not be residences on top of one another. This zoning also allows for raising of small farm animals for domestic use. Large animals such as horses are limited to one animal per 10,000 square feet. We did see a few RV's out here when we visited, and it sounds like enforcement of RV use is by neighbor complaint, so a good chance RV use would not be an issue. You can also apply for a variance or conditional use permit for mobile and RV use.

Welton

Located just 29 miles east of Yuma, the town of Welton is home to about 3,500 full time residents (and about double that amount in winter months). Originally founded as a water stop for the railroads, Welton has a rich history and is a wonderful place for recreation and the retired lifestyle. The town hosts several annual events including the Tractor Rodeo, Pioneer Day Fiesta, and Kiwanis Fishing Derby.

Yuma County

Yuma county is home to over 200,000 permanent residents, and an additional 100,000 during the winter months. Winter temperatures in this area borders on perfect with warm temperatures, very little precipitation, and low humidity. With a total area larger than the state of Connecticut, Yuma County has many attractions and activities for both residents and visitors alike. In addition to gambling and lounging by the pool, hunting is a popular activity. The county offers several varieties of game along with water sports on the Colorado and Gila Rivers. Being bordered by Mexico on the southern border also provides for international excursions. In addition to tourism, farming and two military bases feed the county economy year around.
